

Leading industrial flooring Group RCR Industrial Flooring, with more than 50 years of experience and presence in the Spanish territory, in Europe, America and Africa, presents now the recently created company RCRConcrete Engineering, S.L.

RCRConcrete Engineering, S.L. appears as the first 100% Spanish company offering a Technical Full Service in industrial flooring, including industrial design, execution control, and later measurement of any of the parameters of the pavement.

RCRConcrete Engineering, S.L. joins the know-how compiled by the technicians of the Group RCR Industrial Flooring along their career, offering to the customer, from the design and conception of the project to the final achievement, at every stage of the process, identifying the customers' needs, and offering always customized solutions, adapted to the specific requirements of any surface, giving advice in the design of their project and technical support, and controlling execution at every stage of the project.

The high qualified team of engineers in RCRConcrete Engineering, S.L. has shown in the course of several years of experience the professionalism required in a sector like industrial flooring, in which the objectivity and accuracy in measurements, calculations and reports must fulfil the most exigent rules.

We invite to visit our website www.rcrengineering.com where the information about our services is developed, and our technicians are available if a company is keen on arrange a meeting in their offices in order to receive detailed and customized information about our company and our methodology of work.